've ran from the cops before and actually got away.... The adrenaline rush of the chase, the moment you think you'll be caught you ponder if you're better off giving up or going all in. The feeling of pure panic while that panic is being boosted by adrenaline.... The moment you think you've got away you still think that there's no way... I need to keep going.... THEN the moment you realize Holy cow... I actually got away. Idk how to describe the feeling, it's almost like a wash of emotions.'ve ran from the cops before and actually got away....
